ATD State Conference

On November 9th, ATD WV will hold a state conference. It will be at University of Charleston in the Erma Byrd Gallery, Rigglesman Hall. The conference will be from 8am-5pm and anyone who is interested in learning how to further their career, is welcome to attend.

In constantly changing environments, learning professionals eagerly seek out the skills to successfully navigate the business terrain. ATD's goal is to deliver those skills by offering engaging, research based, actionable programming. This year's state conference focuses on competencies to advance the careers of learning and performance professionals.

The keynote speaker is Kelli McNemar, owner of KJM Collaborations. Also speaking is Laura Prisc, author, coach, speaker and founder of Great Expectations Think Space, Brian Kinghorn, professor of curriculum, instruction, and foundations at Marshall University, and Travis Kahle from University of Charleston as Director for Center of Career Development.

Mountwest Lunch-n-Learn

ATD has partnered with Mountwest to host a lunch-n-learn. This event will be October 25th at Mountwest and will be a coaching and communication discussion.

The session will be presented by Coach David Beam, a local certified business coach with fifteen years of experience. He has graciously volunteered his time.

This is a great opportunity to enjoy professional discussion on how to help motivate teams, understand communication in the workplace, and confront organization frustration.

It is a free event with lunch provided. Register at Eventbrite.com but seats are limited so don't delay.

Training Tip

“Those who build great organizations make sure they have the right people on the bus and the right people in the key seats before they figure out where to drive the bus. They always think first about who and then about what. When facing chaos and uncertainty, and you cannot possibly predict what's coming around the corner, your best ‘strategy’ is to have a busload of people who can adapt to and perform brilliantly no matter what comes next.” - Jim Collins
